

COVID-19 PROTOCOLS

The session recommends and encourages everyone who attends worship in-person to wear a mask regardless of your vaccination status. We also ask that worshipers continue to be mindful of social distancing. As we have suggested throughout the pandemic, if you are not feeling well or suspect that you might be sick, please stay home and worship via our live-stream broadcast. Finally, if you have not been vaccinated, we encourage you to take the vaccine shots for your own health and safety as well as for the health and safety of your fellow church members and our community as a whole.

Bring your own picnic lunch and eat under the Picnic Pavilion or on the back porch of the Dining Hall.

Enjoy afternoon recreation activities such as the ZipLine or relax in a rocking chair on the porch and visit with friends.

No reservation needed. No cost.

In case of predicted inclement weather, a decision will be made about moving worship to the Wallace Presbyterian Church and communicated to the congregation.

Camp Kirkwood is located at 2015 Camp Kirkwood Rd, Watha, NC about 10 miles south of Wallace, off of Highway 117.

Turn right on Camp Kirkwood Road and the camp entrance will be on your right about a 1/4 mile down the road.

Dear Friends,

In November, Nancy and I will attend a continuing education event at Union Presbyterian Seminary in Richmond, VA about leadership in times of transition. The article below is a reprint of my September 16 article for The Duplin Times.

In preparation for a continuing education seminar, I am reading "How to Lead When You Don't Know Where You're Going", about leadership in a time of great transition. The way we used to do things doesn't necessarily work well any more. A new way of doing things is not entirely clear. We find ourselves in an in-between time, full of possibilities and, at the same time, extremely anxiety producing. The author writes, "Our destination is not yet clear. The leader must keep the people moving forward, but the endpoint is fuzzy. [This] requires us to build the bridge as we walk on it." The book and seminar are primarily intended for church leaders, but this observation describes the times we are living in during the COVID-19 pandemic: "It is exhausting trying to keep the old structures intact, managing the anxiety of the transition, and making space for the birth of the new thing – all at the same time." Everyone I have talked with during the past eighteen months has, in one way or another, expressed the same sentiment, "We're trying to do the best we can." Medical personnel, school administrators, teachers, business owners, minister colleagues, parents, just to name a few, all say, "We've never been through anything like this. We're trying to figure it out as we go along." Isn't it curious how resistant we are to change, when life is always changing? Some transitions are planned – retiring, getting married, starting a new job, or becoming parents. However, life brings unexpected changes – a sudden death, the loss of a job, a devastating natural disaster, or a worldwide pandemic. I wrote this article on September 10. Try to remember how different things were on September 10 twenty years ago. When the Twin Towers collapsed the next day, we watched the security and comfort and familiarity of life crumbling. We knew things would never be the same again, but we weren't sure what the future held. We find ourselves in a similar situation in the COVID-19 pandemic. As much as we might like to go back to the way things used to be, that really isn't an option. However, we're not sure what the future, short and long-term, holds. In the meantime, we're trying to do the best we can. The Christian faith is a journey through the "already but not yet." We put our trust in a God who never changes, in order to have hope and courage to live in an ever-changing world. Our God says, "I am about to do a new thing; now it

WORLD COMMUNION SUNDAY

OCTOBER 3

We will celebrate the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper during worship on World Communion Sunday, October 3. Individual communion sets will be provided for people worshipping in the sanctuary. If you are worshipping at home, you are encouraged to have the elements of bread and cup ready to participate in the sacrament.

World Communion Sunday (originally called World Wide Communion Sunday) is a gift of the Presbyterian Church to the larger ecumenical church. The first celebration occurred at Shadyside Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh, PA, in 1933 where Dr. Hugh Thompson Kerr served as pastor.

Celebration of World Wide Communion Sunday was adopted as a denominational practice in the Presbyterian Church (US) in 1936. Churches in other denominations were invited to celebrate with us from the beginning, but it wasn't until 1940 when the Department of Evangelism of the Federal Council of Churches (a predecessor body of the National Council of Churches) promoted extending the celebration to a number of churches around the world that the practice became widespread.

All are welcome at the Lord's table!

springs forth, do you not perceive it?" We are assured that "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever," and this same Jesus always offers us a new beginning. We live in challenging, in-between times. We're all building the bridge as we walk on it. Just remember, as a friend of mine told me years ago, we may not know what the future holds, but we know who holds the future.

Blessings, and be safe,

Phil

SPECIAL HURRICANE IDA OFFERING
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 24

We will receive a special Hurricane Ida offering on Sunday, October 24. You may write a check to Wallace Presbyterian Church and mark it for "Hurricane Ida Aid." Mail your check to P.O. Box 717, Wallace, NC 28466 or drop it in the mail slot on the front door of the church office building or in the offering plate during worship. You may also contribute online at www.wallacepresbyterian.com.

The offering will be divided among the Presbyterian Disaster Assistance program and RHINO (Rebuilding Hope in New Orleans).

Presbyterian Disaster Assistance enables congregations and mission partners of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) to witness to the healing love of Christ through caring for communities adversely affected by crises and catastrophic events. Read more at www.pda.pcusa.org.

RHINO (Rebuilding Hope in New Orleans) is an outreach ministry of the St. Charles Avenue Presbyterian Church in New Orleans. The ministry was founded in response to Hurricane Katrina in 2005. Since its founding, RHINO has hosted more than 8,000 volunteers from over 43 states and three countries.
